Bridging the Intergenerational Communication Gap	Good communication is the foundation to any team, department, or organization. With it, people absorb and comprehend messages from management, value differences, and there is stronger cohesion throughout the team. Without it there is a lack of trust, misunderstandings occur, and a climate of low morale exists. Getting everyone on the same page isn't always easy, particularly within intergenerational work environments and the varied ways people communicate. Join this interactive webinar to better understand strategies that can lead to real improvements in employee communication, motivation, and productivity. Understanding your money personality	A lot of people will tell you exactly how to manage your money. We all know that we should develop and live on a budget, watch our spending habits and never go impulse shopping. Why do we do all of these things? We will help you recognize those behaviors and develop healthy habits for long-term financial wellbeing.	ECMC	4/17/19	10:00 AM	https://www.ecmc.org/schools/training.html

Present-day Engagement: Connecting Your Gen Z's with Financial Literacy	Every generation has their own unique outlook on money and personal finance. That's because historical events and social trends help shape each generations' beliefs and behaviors. Over the past decade, research and discussions have been focused on understanding millennials, however we need to switch to the next generation—Generation Z. Gen Z's are now as old as 21 and they are very different from their predecessor. They're more digitally innate, entrepreneurial, visually stimulated, and have shorter attention spans than any other generation. Furthermore, they have a different approach to money and spending. Join this session to learn how to connect with your Gen Z students using present-day engagement tools and strategies. Building a Better Award Letter	Award letters are a key to student recruitment, but today's award letters are hard to decipher for families as they try to make decisions on the best fit for their prospective student. The format is inconsistent, terminology is confusing and bottom-line cost is too hard to figure out. What can you do when 63% of recently enrolled and prospective students note feeling lost when searching for college or financial aid options? Join us as we look at how to build a better award letter noting studies on award letter pitfalls and improvements for content, brand and student experience to help families make better financial decisions.
