Five Ways Student Loans Impact Credit	When your students borrow federal loans, do they understand the impact it will have on their credit profiles? Unfortunately, many students don't—but they should. Actions taken on their loans during repayment will determine whether they'll have a favorable or unfavorable credit history. Making good decisions can result in them being able to get job, car, or home but poor ones can diminish their options. Join us as we have identified the five ways student loans impact credit and what borrowers can do to make to turn their debt into a major asset in building a good credit report. Reaping Results with a 12-Month Default Prevention Calendar	Default prevention isn't a one and done activity. Results are achieved when continuous efforts are developed and executed properly. If you're like many schools, you may not have the time or resources required to develop a plan. During this session we'll share manageable default prevention activities for each month of the year. You'll be able to kick off the year on January 1 with a calendar of proven strategies that you can complete each month to manage rates and reap results.
